

fig. 38 (p. 20)
Initiated man's expandable bark belt, used both ceremonially and in secular contexts
 Northern Territory, north Arnhem Land, from Darwin to the Cobourg Peninsula; 19th c.
 H 12 cm, Diam. 26 cm
 Thin strip of bark with loop of bark fibre, pipeclay, yellow ochre, black manganese
 South Australian Museum, Adelaide
 Collected in March 1891
 SAM A 2876

fig. 39 (p. 20)
Man's expandable bark belt with white cross-hatching, leaving plain elongated diamond patterns (Kobellbell)
 Northern Territory, Alligator River; 19th c.
 H 14 cm, Diam. 30 cm
 Strip of bark, red ochre, pipeclay
 South Australian Museum, Adelaide
 Collected around 1902
 SAM A51003

fig. 40 (p. 20)
Man's expandable bark belt with blue designs, perhaps of Dreaming Ancestors
 Northern Territory, Pine Creek region south of Darwin; 19th c.
 H 8.5 cm, Diam. 17 cm
 Strip of bark, Reckitt's Blue washing powder, pipeclay
 South Australian Museum, Adelaide
 Acquired in 1891
 SAM A3889